

Digimon Card Game Sealed Battle Regulations

Each player will open 6 new packs of the designated product and make a main deck of 40 cards and a Digi-Egg deck of 0-5 cards using only cards from these packs they opened.

■ Rules for Sealed Battle Decks

- ① There are no limits to the number of cards in the main or Digi-Egg deck that have the same card number.
(e.g.: With this battle style players could have 5 copies or more of [BT1-010 Agumon] in their deck.)
- ② The banned/restricted card list may be ignored.
(e.g.: With this battle style players could have 2 copies or more of the normally restricted [BT3-103 Hidden Potential Discovered!].)
- ③ Cards from the packs not used in the deck become the player's sideboard cards.

• Sideboard

Sideboard cards are not used during a game.

In between matches cards in the player's deck can be replaced by cards in the player's sideboard.

When switching cards, the number of cards in the Digi-Egg deck may be changed (0~5 cards) but the main deck must stay the same number of cards (40 cards).

■ Sealed Battle Special Rules

- ① When digivolving, the color restriction does not need to be met. However, this does not mean the digivolving conditions can be ignored.
(e.g.: With the below digivolution conditions this means you may digivolve into this card from a Lv.3 Digimon even if it is not Yellow.)

(e.g.: With the below digivolution conditions this means that you can still digivolve into this card from a Lv.4 Digimon that has <Save> even if the card is not Red, Black, or Purple.)

(e.g.: With the below digivolution conditions you can DNA digivolve into this card using 2 Lv.6 Digimon even if they are not Red or Black.

- ② During the breeding phase a player may “hatch”, “move the Digimon in the breeding area to the battle area”, or “do nothing” as in regular play, but also get an additional option which is “place a Lv.3 Digimon card in the breeding area”.

• “Place a Lv.3 Digimon card in the breeding area”

“Place a Lv.3 Digimon card in the breeding area” means the player places one Lv.3 Digimon card from their hand face up in the breeding area. This does is not treated as being played.
